Highly Anticipated New Hire at NM Technology Provider Oso Grande Promises Next Level Growth & Service

Summary: Following pinnacle success at telecommunications conglomerate Comcast, Nicholas Galarza brings talent, experience, and vision to his new role as Director of Sales and Business Development for the fast-growing data center based in Albuquerque.

Albuquerque, NM—This week Oso Grande Technologies, Inc., a leading New Mexico data center technology provider, announced that Albuquerque native Nicholas Galarza will join the firm as Director of Sales and Business Development. Galarza stepped into his position in August 2022.

With a long history in New Mexico marked by years of following the fast-changing tech industry, Galarza appears the ideal fit for his new role at Oso, as its leadership moves aggressively to expand the company's offerings.

"Nick is poised to bring the expertise necessary to usher in an exciting season of growth for Oso as we prepare to introduce additional high-value products, while also expanding our service areas and fiber reach," remarks Oso Board Chair Dennis Jontz. "This is a long-anticipated moment for us."

Galarza moves into leadership at Oso Grande following eight years of outstanding success at Philadelphia-based Comcast, the world's second largest American provider of cable television, entertainment, and communication products and services. At Comcast, Galarza received recognitions for top sales for the mountain-west region and distinguished himself as a strategic thinker in business development and revenue-generation, as well as account management and large-scale projects.
